77-YEAR-OLD ROBBER KILLED BY $7,900 STICKUP VICTIM

DAVENPORT, Iowa (P)—A 77-year-old man was shot and killed Friday a short time after he robbed the northwest Davenport Turner Hall of about $7,900.

Police identified him as John Healy, alias John Ward, who had registered at a Davenport hotel. He was shot by Lawrence Ruefer, 42, manager of the hall, and died in a hospital.

Wearing a Halloween mask and carrying a revolver, the elderly bandit appeared at the Ruefer apartment over the hall and told the manager, I'm sorry about this. I need the money.

He forced Ruefer to open a safe in which funds of the fraternal society were kept. As he was making a getaway Ruefer got a shotgun he kept in his apartment and shot out a window at the man.

'Promises Broken' Ike Power Policy Hit By Langer

Senator Brandishes 'No Votes' Warning

WASHINGTON (P)—Sen. Langer (R-ND) Friday assailed President Eisenhower's public power policy and accused the Interior Department of refusing to honor a "legal and binding contract" with the Electric Power Co-Operative of Missouri.

In a slashing Senate attack on what he called Eisenhower's repudiated campaign pledges Langer said:

"If any promise was broken by a man after he was elected it was broken by Dwight Eisenhower."

Langer, who often votes with the Democrats in the Senate, said he owed the Republican party "nothing." He shouted that if the administration did not support the principle of public power the senior senator from North Dakota will say to the rank and file of the people: Don't vote for any more promises by the man who today occupies the White House."

Langer said his judiciary subcommittee on monopoly Thursday took sworn testimony that Secretary of Interior McKay had refused to honor a contract between the government's Southwest Power Administration and the Electric Power Co-Op of Missouri.

Langer said a federal judge has ruled that the government owes $106,000 under the contract. He said the ruling had not been appealed.

Langer said: "I intend to get to the bottom of just exactly what is taking place and believe me I will get to the bottom of it."

He said he would summon McKay and Assistant Secretary Fred G. Aandahl before his subcommittee. Aandahl was defeated by Langer in the 1952 Republican senatorial primary in North Dakota.

The senator recalled a speech by Eisenhower on Oct. 4, 1952, at Fargo, N.D. He said Eisenhower had promised to extend the Rural Electrification program but that since then private power interests had taken him into camp.

Describing the Fargo speech, Langer said: "That was when Mr. Eisenhower was looking for votes."

U.S. Gets Bases In Ethiopia

Haile Selassie Signs 99-Year Agreement

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (P)—Emperor Haile Selassie has signed an agreement granting the United States 99-year military base rights in Ethiopia.

Terms of the agreement remained secret. It was learned on high authority, however, that a formal announcement will be made shortly after the emperor's arrival in the United States about May 25. He is due to leave Addis Ababa May 19 by plane for LeHavre, France, where he will board the liner United States for New York.

He will be President Eisenhower's official guest at the White House and later will make a coast-to-coast tour.

Under the new agreement it is believed the U.S. will install small units of ground troops in Ethiopia initially.

Ethiopia signed a mutual security agreement with the United States a year ago under which it would receive token military aid totaling about five million dollars.

PARILLION, Neb. (P)—A man who was reported to have threatened women in a Sarpy County farm house led about a dozen law enforcement officers a four mile chase, jumped in the Platte River and put up a half hour battle with officers in boats before he was subdued Friday evening.

Once ashore, the man refused to walk and had to be carried by officers.

Man Fatally Burned As Auto Spills

WAYNE, Neb. (P)—Authorities early Saturday were trying to establish the identity of a man burned to death when his car turned over on Highway 15 seven miles south of here and burst into flame.

The accident occurred shortly before midnight.

The body was taken to a Wayne Funeral Home.

The death was the state's 106th for the year, compared with 75 for this time last year.

Court Action Possible In Joe-Army Dispute

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (INS)—Sen. John McClellan (D-Ark.) said Friday night that there is "possibility of court action at present" on the basis of evidence uncovered in the Army-McCarthy hearings.

The Arkansas senator said the transcript of testimony regarding a letter involving restricted information that reached the hands of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) might involve "a crime."

The principal address was delivered by Dr. Raymond J. Pool, retired professor botany at the University, and chairman emeritus of the botany department. Dr. Pool spoke on the progress of Nebraska agriculture from pioneer days.

Ed Hoyt, director of Nebraska's Agriculture and Inspection department, told the group of the late Howard's achievements.

Mr. Howard came from Grant City, Mo., to file a homestead in McPherson County, Nebraska in 1910, Hoyt said. He was elected state senator from the 91st district in 1935, the last year of the bi-cameral in Nebraska. He then served on the Unicameral Legislature for six years and was chosen Speaker in 1941.

During the chase officers fired a dozen times at the man. He was struck by pellets from a riot gun.

Officers identified him as Antonio G. Valdes, about 42, a Mexican. He refused to talk after being subdued and officers were uncertain whether he could speak English.

Women at the Walter For-noff home notified Sarpy County Sheriff Ernest Arp who started the pursuit of Valdes, then summoned help. Arp and Richard Knight, Ralston-town marshal pursued the man by boat after he jumped in the river but were outdistanced by Valdes, a powerful swimmer.

PIPE WORKERS WALK OFF JOBS

A labor contract, however, had been signed with the company management. The union, under representative Jesse James, is the bargaining agent.

Hike Understanding
The agent for the workers during their walkout Friday, Ralph Bishop, said there had been a general understanding that after the plant was completed, there would be general all-around increases in the pay scale. Bishop said, too, that complaints had been made against lack of safety measures in the manufacturing process.

The present pay scale is $1.25 an hour. The workers said they had requested this be raised to $1.50 an hour. The average number of hours worked daily, they said, was from 10 to 12, with overtime being paid after eight hours a day or 40 a week.

The manufacturing plant, which supplies pipe for line now under construction, is located just south and east of Union Airport.

Officials of the Lock-Joint Pipe Company were unavailable for comment on the walkout.

BUTLER USES WHEELCHAIR

WASHINGTON (P)—Sen. Hugh Butler (R-Neb.) appeared on the Senate floor Friday in a metal wheelchair as a result of a sprained hip suffered more than a week ago.

Resource Plan 'In Mothballs'—Chapman

BOULDER, Colo. (P)—Former Interior Secretary Oscar Chapman charged Friday night that the present Interior Department has no program for conserving natural resources.

Speaking before a session of newspaper week at the University of Colorado, Chapman said: "The natural resources development program has been put in mothballs—like the Mighty Mo. Rigor Mortis has already set in and unless rescued soon the development of our priceless natural resources will be set back 20 years or more."

Chapman further charged that while the Republican administration pledged full support of reclamation, not one program is under way which is not a continuation of a project started by the previous administration.

"The Republican high command, while giving lip service to the cause of conservation development, has actually tossed the movement into the political ash can," said Chapman.

MARSHALLS APPEAL FOR CEASE-FIRE OF H-BOMB TESTS

Islanders Inform U.N. Of Injuries

Regret Expressed By Sen. Lodge

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Citing evidence of physical injury, people of the far-Dong Marshall Islands have urgently appealed for an immediate end of the United States' hydrogen bomb tests affecting them.

If the tests must continue, they said, proper safety precautions and compensation must be provided.

The Pacific Islanders reported that residents of two atolls, Rongelab and Uterik, suffered "in various degrees from lowering of the blood count," burns, nausea, and the falling off of hair from the head" as the result of the American tests with "lethal weapons."

Called Runaway Blast

The language of the petition, signed by more than 100 Marshallese and made public by the U. N., indicated these ailments resulted from the hydrogen blast of March 1. This was the blast described in some quarters as a runaway explosion. It caused radiation burns on men on a Japanese fishing boat.

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., U. S. delegate, said in a statement that the U. S. government "is very sorry indeed" for the ill effects suffered by the Marshallese people. Lodge said 236 citizens in the affected area were given the same prompt and thorough treatment accorded U. S. personnel in the test group.

He said he was informed there is no medical reason to expect permanent after-effects to their general health due to the falling of radioactive materials.

Regarding the request for an immediate end to the experiments, Lodge called attention to the American announcement that the 1954 series of tests has been completed.

Lodge also assured the Marshallese people that safety measures would be taken and compensation made for damages.

Coordination Aim Of Safety Meeting, Tire Dealers Told

Gov Robert Crosby Friday told the Nebraska Tire Dealers traffic safety conference at the Capitol that the state-wide traffic safety meet he has called in Grand Island, May 22, must not discourage individual group activity but is intended to co-ordinate and expand the campaign against traffic accidents.

The governor and Capt. O. H. Witt of the Safety Patrol told of recent changes in administration of driver's license examinations and operation of state truck scales that will permit 24 additional men to go on highway patrol duty on June 1.

State Engineer L. N. Riss told of developments whereby engineering helps reduce accidents.

Emerson Wistwick of the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies told of the growth and significance of driver education. LeRoy Ortgiesen of the Department of Public Instruction explained how driver education is progressing in Nebraska.

Psycho-physical factors in driving took up a large part of the conference with Richard Bolton identifying the vision factors and M. J. Timmins of the state truckers' association reporting the benefits that have been obtained from testing.

Chris Beck, chairman of the tire dealers safety committee, presided.

'Don't Talk' Call Brings Demo Blast

Adams Silenced On Top Echelon Meeting Over Army Charges

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration Friday clamped a secrecy lid on a now-famous meeting which helped prepare the way for the Army's challenge to Sen. McCarthy. (R-Wis).

The "don't talk" edict brought swift protests from Democrats on the McCarthy-Army investigating Subcommittee. They demanded that top federal officials—up to but not including President Eisenhower—be called if necessary to find out whether the Army's actions were masterminded at the highest level of government.

The meeting in question was held Jan. 21 and was attended by Sherman Adams, the President's top assistant; and Atty. Gen. Brownell.

Army counselor John G. Adams testified Wednesday that Sherman Adams advised him at this meeting, held in Brownell's office, to keep a written record of the Army's troubles with McCarthy's office over Pvt. G. David Schine. Later publication of this record led to the present blazing row.

More Details

Friday Democrats on the Senate Investigations Subcommittee pressed for more details of the meeting, and down over the televised hearings came the administration's secrecy lid.

Joseph N. Welch, counsel to the Army officials, said Adams had been instructed to say no more about the meeting. These instructions, he said, came from the acting head of the Defense Department, Robert Anderson. Welch added that he understood Anderson was transmitting them for somebody else.

That pointed to the White House. And at the White House, assistant press secretary Murray Snyder, when asked if their local originated there, would say only: "I have no information to give out."

Welch tried and failed during the noon recess of the hearings to get some explanation in writing for the investigators. Reluctantly, the Democrats agreed to give him the week-end to make a further attempt.

Means To Find Out

But Sen. McClellan (Ark), senior Democrat on the investigating unit, declared he means to find out "if there was someone higher than Mr. Adams and (Secretary of the Army) Stevens that was directing their actions" when the fight with McCarthy was developing.

With Sens. Symington (D-Mo) and Jackson (D-Wash) voicing like sentiments, McClellan declared that unless he is shown some law to the contrary he will insist on questioning any top level officials who directed the Army's actions.

Temperance League Asks 'Indignation' Move Against Minors In Taverns

Temperance League of Nebraska members have called for "more indignation on the part of churches at the presence of minors in taverns and liquor stores of Nebraska."

Other resolutions adopted at the League's semi-annual meeting held here urged church members to communicate with their congressmen asking them to back passage of the Langer bill which would stop interstate advertising of beer and liquor and the Budget measure which would forbid the showing on any television program of liquor or beer being poured from a container to a glass.

Since the league is only an educational agency of the churches, the legislative committee's report was concerned with nothing but resolutions to the member denominations and Nebraska churches in general.

Dr. Luther J. Tigner, executive director, said the league is now receiving active support from 15 denominations and that 11 of these have named delegates to the board of trustees. He added that probably 20 denominations soon will carry out their local temperance programs through the league.

Dr. Niles Barnard of the University of Nebraska, vice-president in charge of finances, recommended greater participation by local churches through budget gifts.

The Rev. Gale Moon, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Kearney and the league's vice-president and education committee chairman, said more than 500 entries from Nebraska high school students were received in the annual essay contest. The contest will be an annual affair; the board voted, and will begin next year in October with Citizenship Day planned for early April, 1955.

The Rev. Mr. Moon also said that the first in a series of alcohol study institutes will be held in Central City on Wednesday. This pilot meeting will be followed by others in the fall.

The Rev. Kenneth Locke, pastor of the Federated Church of Aurora, is league president and presided at the meeting.

Wounded Evacuation Is Started

Initial French Group Is Flown To Hanoi

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—The first of seriously wounded French Union soldiers were evacuated from captured Dien Bien Phu Friday night, the French command announced.

The initial group of the 450 who are expected to be brought out by agreement with the Communist-led Vietminh arrived by plane at Hanoi just before 11 p.m. They included eight men—French paratroopers, Algerians and Foreign Legionnaires.

The French command said the helicopter which flew to Dien Bien Phu to bring out the first load was "blocked in" by stormy weather for hours after landing, delaying the evacuation operation.

The delay had caused rumors that the Vietminh was placing fresh political demands as its price for carrying out the evacuation agreement reached at Dien Bien Phu Thursday when a French doctor headed a mission to the former French fortress 175 miles west of Hanoi.

The French spokesman had denied knowledge of any such demands being made by the Vietminh, however.

Beynon Lauds Ike Business Management

The Eisenhower administration is doing a good job of bringing business methods into the management of government affairs.

This opinion was expressed by Ira D. Beynon, Lincoln attorney, who recently resigned from the post of director of the real property management division of the Department of Defense.

"There are top-notch businessmen who have taken a leave of absence," he said, "to organize different departments."

Beynon, who had served in the Defense Department post since last September, said he resigned since the department, which was established under his direction, is now "well organized and well staffed." He originally assumed the post only to supervise the setting up of the division.

One of the most important things the division accomplished, Beynon said, was to secure a directive for dispersal of Federal facilities under which installations will be scattered rather than concentrated in Washington, D.C.

The exhibit will be open 2 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. Saturday. Receipts from the event will go directly to the Cornhusker Scout Council to be used for activities in the area covered by the council.

Officials of the event said that the attendance Friday was "as good or better" than last year and said that the Saturday show usually has an even larger attendance.

90-Day Reserve Is Aim

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Powers in Europe (AP)—The critically short ammunition reserves of the Atlantic Pact's fighting forces have been increased to a supply sufficient for 19 days combat, Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther's supply chief announced.

By the end of this year a 40-day supply is expected to be on hand, Maj. Gen. Crump Garvin of Harrison, Ark., the SHAPE chief of staff for logistics, told newsmen in an informal discussion.

A year ago there was only a three-day supply of certain categories of ammunition. In all fields of supplies SHAPE aims at building up a 90 day reserve. This is considered the minimum time needed for the 14 North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) Allies to get fully mobilized, with supply channels operating.

Garvin said the supply estimates are based on a rate of use far exceeding that of World War II or the Korean War. The general organized the Pusan logistical command in the Korean conflict.

Somewhat Better
National ammunition supplies not definitely earmarked for use by NATO forces are not included in the supply estimates, Garvin said. This means the ammunition outlook is somewhat better than it seems because in case of war those national supplies would be thrown into their defense effort.

To give some idea of the magnitude of the ammunition reserve problem, Garvin said the 90-day supply SHAPE is working toward would require 3,400,000 tons of ammunition costing about $4 billion dollars. There are 700,000 tons of ammunition in the present 19-day supply, he said. The big need is for 105 mm and 155 mm artillery shells, he said. In small arms ammunition most nations have more than a 90-day supply, he said, and U. S. forces in Germany are about up to this level.

Murals Judges Inspect Sketches

Judges who will help select the artist to paint the murals in the Statehouse look over sketches submitted by persons entering the competition. They are (left to right) Col. Harry F. Cunningham of Lincoln, professional advisor; Frederick A. Sweet from the Art Institute of Chicago; Hildreth Meiere of

New York City, who has painted murals in parts of the capitol, Lee Lawrie of Easton, Md., sculptor for the capitol; and Marvin L. Robinson, Lincoln architect. The Murals Commission will also participate in the selection. The selection of the artist probably will be announced this weekend. (Star Photo.)

More Murals Are Being Planned

Art work in the state capitol still will not be completed, even with the decision of an artist to do the mural work now being planned, Lee Lawrie said Friday night.

Lawrie, the sculptor for the capitol whose work includes the Sower atop the building, said more murals have been planned for later on.

Lawrie is in Lincoln to help judge the sketches which have been submitted by seven artists for the murals award. The committee expects to reach a decision Saturday.

He said the themes for the murals first proposed in Dr. Hartley Alexander's original synopsis, are "pretty nearly" being carried out.

The sculptor, who has not had anything to do with the Statehouse since 1933, said the capitol is still "one of the grandest places in the world."

Lawrie, now making his home in Maryland, said he is busy doing some sketches for schemes contemplated but is planning nothing as extensive as the Nebraska Statehouse.

Extension Of Training Cut-off Date Backed

Chief Roger Gibson of the Nebraska Veterans' Affairs Division's education and training division, said Friday the National Association of State Approval Agencies favors extension of the present cut-off date for training benefits for Korean veterans.

Present law fixes the cut-off date at two years from passage of the act, or two years from release from service.

For those released prior to Aug. 20, 1952, the cut-off date is Aug. 20, 1954. This means they would have to enroll in summer school if they have not already begun their program, Gibson explained.

Gibson returned Friday from the convention at Wheeling, W. Va., where he was elected vice president of the association.

Ruling Given

The attorney general's office ruled Friday that the motor vehicle tax should be computed from the date of application for registration, rather than from the date of acquisition of title.

Three Of A Kind

An item in the state press this week caught our eye and our curiosity, inasmuch as the news context seemed to provide the quality of something out of the ordinary.

It is commencement time again, with all that that word entails—a beginning and an end—time of gathering together in ceremony for receiving of documents that proclaim in impressive scroll or gold letters that a given phase of formal education has been individually and satisfactorily completed. Time for completion of one of the loveliest chapters in memory books . . . strolls along the shaded walks . . . bonfires and wiener roasts . . . the songs . . . the ivy towers . . . Time of the ultimate in happiness, shading off into the somber tones of a nostalgia of parting and good times that will come no more . . .

Next Wednesday evening commencement exercises will be held at Tekamah's high school for its graduating group of 38. And from the 38, there will be not one and not two—but three valedictorians this year, thus making history in Tekamah scholastic records. The three who have excelled are Carol Alley, Shirley Hampton and Kenneth Knox, with salutatory honors going to Carolyn Kriebel. Tekamah will be especially fortunate this year, also, in its selection of a commencement speaker. Returning to her old haunts will be former instructor Miss Nell Sneed who is presently following an illustrious newspaper career. A member of the Kansas City Star, Miss Sneed covered the coronations of 1937 and 1953, has traveled extensively in Europe, and in 1951 received from President Truman an award as one of the country's outstanding newspaper women.

One looks at page after page of the smiling young faces and sees there no apparent trace of distress or anxiety or cynicism, and presently finds himself smiling back—for here is young America, perennially untouched and unafraid.

Rising Party Spirit

On the eve of the annual Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner gathering of Nebraska Democrats, National Committeeman Bernard Boyle of Omaha, and Democratic State Chairman William H. Meier of Minden each expressed optimism.

There is a real basis for this optimism.

Both on the national and the state level, straws in the wind indicated that the people who cast the votes were turning to the Democratic party. Some of the shine acquired in the campaign of 1952 has worn off. On the national level, perhaps the greatest weakness of the present administration is a widespread feeling that it has not assumed the full responsibility of leadership. But even more here in the Midwest—and it is not restricted solely to Nebraska — is an undertone of anxiety in many instances, and belief in others, that the policies now being developed in Washington are discriminatory against the Midwest's basic industry agriculture. Out here both urban and rural peoples readily recognize their closeness to good earth. Doris Fleson reported that in neighboring South Dakota, a revived Democratic party, gaining strength from the unfortunate policies initiated by Secretary of Agriculture Benson, was making real strides. And those same reports come in from other neighboring states.

It is still early but on the basis of present developments, Nebraska Democrats do have a foundation for their optimism.

On the state level, there has been a disposition in the press to look upon Nebraska as one of the most orthodox Republican states in the Union. Nothing could be further from the truth. Starting in the late 'eighties and continuing until 1940, the swing of the pendulum between the two major parties in the selection of a governor, for example, provides a political chapter not to be found in any of the other 47 states. Throughout that period the people turned from a Republican governor to a Democrat, and from a Democrat to a Republican with amazing regularity. Neither party remained in power for a period of longer than 10 years, and more commonly the system of checks and balances manifested itself within eight years or less. The Republicans have been in power since 1940 in state government, a period of nearly 14 years.

In the present undertones in Nebraska, the prospects for a change are not beyond the realm of possibility.

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

"In high spirits," a Nebraska contemporary reminds its readers, "Captains Meriwether Lewis and William Clark hoisted sail and set out for the western expedition" that was to explore America from St. Louis to the mouth of the Columbia. It was an awesome undertaking. It placed upon the shoulders of two men and their associates responsibility for finding out what Thomas Jefferson had actually gotten in the acquisition of Louisiana Territory.

It was a fortunate thing that the two men designated to lead made such an excellent team. As the Herald pointed out, the "moody, introspective Lewis" served as a rare foil for the "ebullient, extroverted Clark"—as a team they saw far more than the primitive, vast stretches of earth upon which they gazed. They saw more than a country of rivers, plains and mountains, a land of unfriendly Indians and wild animals. They saw a region, actually, that 150 years later is making a mighty contribution not only to America's well-being but a contribution which in a very large sense is of importance to the entire world. They saw the magnificent farms, and rising high in the skies, outwitting even the lofty mountain peaks which they crossed, the mountains of food which serve to appease world hunger. They opened up the great migrations of history, a migration which in its ultimate effects still defies any accurate historic rating. For the region of this western expedition, it is now written in the skies will figure infinitely more importantly in America's story of the next 100 years than in the years that have preceded settlement. Just now, the America upon which Lewis and Clark gazed has attained its maturity. It has reached its maturity but by no means its prime. Breathless as is that which has taken place in 150 years, even more so will be the story of the next century.

We cannot recall the lazy, drifting smoke of the early pioneer settlements. They have been blotted out for years. We cannot hear the gay songs of gay spirits pushing into the West. All that has been forgotten even as this epic expedition rarely occupies the thoughts of the millions of people for whom Lewis and Clark blazed the trail.

It is important to remember that the fulfillment of what the Herald calls a magnificent dream can be attributed to certain traits of character so clearly etched in all these generations of a western people. First, there was the creative spirit. One had to see beyond the covering grasses of the Great North American Plains to the black fertile earth underneath—one had to see beyond the tops of the trees of the forests—one had to look beyond the deposits of minerals and metals. One had to understand their beneficial uses for men and women of an eager world. And these generations that followed must have enjoyed work. It took a lot of work, year after year, to build the type of country that the object of Lewis and Clark's expedition was. It was not the labor of a day, a month, a year—but the continuing labors of sturdy generations, constantly expanding the horizons and in those labors finding the results good. And beyond a creative spirit and a willingness to work, most of all there had to be and was a sublime faith sufficient to scale every temporary setback and conquer every reverse. That is the American story at its best. It was written in less time, its details reflect a superior competence to place the proper emphasis upon man's achievement, and finally establishment of unrivalled standards of living.

We will know more about that achievement a hundred years hence than we now know. We will know whether the years of maturity are as productive in terms of imagination, purpose and accomplishment as they have been. These 150 years of exploration and settlement with the resulting satisfying maturity are not the fruits of accident. They were earned. And we shall continue to strive to earn them.

Road Conflict

(From Business Week)

In the Special Report to Executives a provocative quotation appears: "We're going to have one big royal bust before this conflict is settled."

"This conflict" is the rivalry between turnpike commissions and state highway departments for dominance of the roadbuilding boom. In the view of the speech quoted, the new commissions are "competing highway departments within states." This may be. But they are also a symptom of our urgent need for roads.

Turnpikes were common throughout the East a century ago. Our nation's transportation needs were growing faster than wagon roads could be built or improved; the railroad hadn't yet taken command. The turnpike operators of the midcentury were private companies with an eye for a fast dollar. Travelers with an equally sharp eye for saving their money soon worked out toll-free detours around the turnstiles—bringing the vivid word "shunpike" into the language.

Today's turnpike operators are semipublic agencies, created by legislatures to build and operate the roads that public highway departments can't afford.

In this approach to the nation's $40 billion backlog of highway needs, each project is judged on its economic soundness. The investment banker, not the politician, becomes the chief judge. And the turnpike authorities are getting things done, fast.

Where, then, is the conflict? As we see it, only in this: The turnpike commissions live in a half-world, politically, and their role in a nation-wide scheme of things has never been clearly defined. These commissions are neither public agencies nor private business enterprises. Their members are appointed by governors for fairly long terms, subject to removal only for misconduct. They are not directly responsible to legislatures, not financially dependent on appropriations. Few outsiders ever get a chance to study their books. There you find the tinder for a political explosion — both as voters and as motorists. Americans are jealous of their right to control every branch of public affairs.

Halleck's Star Is Up, Joe Martin Is Irked

WASHINGTON—Quiet-spoken Joe Martin, the smooth-operating speaker of the House of Representatives, isn't saying anything about it, but he's just a bit irked at the way his chief assistant, Charley Halleck of Indiana, is intimating he's the GOP leader closest to the White House.

Congressman Halleck did a terrific job for Eisenhower in ramming the St. Lawrence Seaway through Congress even though he has always been against it, and even though one of his best friends, Frank McCarthy, lobbyist for the Pennsylvania railroad, was anxious to have it blocked.

"I argue about this question and about that," explains the House majority leader. "However, when the team makes up its mind, I'm for the team."

Halleck also tells the story of how Eisenhower, after one meeting of Republican leaders, said: "I'd like to talk to you alone for a minute, Charley."

"I'd like to tell you," the President continued, "when they were alone, 'that when I was nominated in Chicago, various names were brought to me. I didn't know much about them then. But I want you to know that your name was among five young men I accepted to run with me on the ticket.'"

Halleck says that the President took him upstairs in the White House and asked him what he thought of a painting. Charley said he liked it.

"I'm glad you like it," said the President, "because I want to make you a present of it."

Some days later Eisenhower called to say: "Charley, this is a little embarrassing. Mamie says she's got to have that picture herself."

So the President had several copies made, of which one went to his House majority leader. On it was this inscription: "Dear Charley. I had hoped to give you the original. This is the best I can do. But some day I hope to get the original away from Mamie."

Charley Halleck is very proud as he shows it to friends.

Joe McCarthy's political pal, Robert Jones, is now staging a well-publicized campaign in Maine to defeat the only elected lady senator, Margaret Chase Smith, who had the courage to circulate the "Declaration of Conscience" against McCarthy's crude senatorial behavior.

Unpublished, however, is the fact that McCarthy can crawl over the political demise of another Republican senator who stood up against him even more than Mrs. Smith—Hendrickson of New Jersey. Mrs. Smith is going to win. Hendrickson did not.

Senator Hendrickson not only signed Mrs. Smith's "declaration of conscience," but went much further. He signed the Senate report on McCarthy's amazing finances, thereby making the report unanimous. Before he signed, he got vigorous pressure from McCarthy, with implied threats that Hendrickson would regret it when he came up for re-election.

However, it fell to the White House, not McCarthy, to lower the political boom on Hendrickson. Though the New Jersey Republican is one of the most conscientious in the Senate, and is now conducting a vitally important probe of juvenile delinquency, Eisenhower pulled wires with New Jersey political bosses to ease Hendrickson out of the race. If Hendrickson stayed in they threatened to put other Republican candidates in the race, well-heeled with dough. So Hendrickson yielded.

McCarthy didn't have to lift his finger. The one Republican who dared sign the McCarthy report was axed for him by the White House.

Note—The incredible statement of McCarthy's finances is still gathering dust in one of Attorney General Brownell's pigeonholes.

MCCARTHY GAUGE

Best test of whether Eisenhower is really down on Joe McCarthy, as advertised by White House aides, is what he does about Joe's Pal, Federal Communications Commissioner John Doerfer.

Most people don't realize it, but McCarthy has managed to wangle two of his friends, Doerfer and Robert E. Lee, on to one of the most important agencies in government. There they can dominate the airways grant or deny TV and radio licenses; and recently gave a coveted TV license to McCarthy's pal, J. L. Hunt, at Corpus Christi.

And with a new McCarthy-isolationist faction, the "For America," showing signs of splitting the Republicans, the influence of McCarthy friends and henchmen on the FCC is even more important. For instance, Texas millionaire hunt now controls four radio and TV programs which get free time and also certain tax benefits—Facts Forum, answers for Americans, Reporters Round-Up, and State of the Nation.

Mrs. McCarthy worked for Hunt on Facts Forum, as did Robert E. Lee, now an FCC commissioner.

Meanwhile, however, Commissioner Doerfer's term expires June 30. And within the next couple of weeks Eisenhower will have to decide whether to reappoint him. With an undistinguished record on the FCC, Doerfer has played the McCarthy line more than Commissioner Lee.

If he does reappoint him it will be interpreted as Capitol Hill that Eisenhower is still appeasing McCarthy, and some of the Democrats propose that they make it a test case on McCarthyism. If they stick together as they did on Taft-Hartley they can win.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Vice President Nixon has lost his inside drag at the White House—largely because he went too far with that statement to editors as to using American troops in Indo-China. Nixon, Charles Wilson, and Admiral Radford now are all muzzled on Indo-Chinese speeches. They have been told to clear the texts of future speeches with the National Security Council . . . The Republicans now blame about everything that goes wrong on Senator Knowland of California.

ARCH DONOVAN

In Step With The Sower

From a considerate daughter and son-in-law stationed at an Army installation in Germany, the Sower received a birthday remembrance that fulfills a lifelong desire. In addition, it is a constant reminder while at home of many with whom the Sower comes in contact in political circles and even a few in the newspaper fraternity.

Every hour on the hour in staccato tones comes the reminder and the Sower's mind starts a sorting process of those we have interviewed in the previous 10 hours. It does not take long to make up the mind as to whom the gift refers as it intones:

"Cuckoo! Cuckoo! Cuckoo!"

Direct from the Black Forest came a cuckoo clock that still keeps the Sower jumping from his easy chair as the hour approaches in order to be watching for the appearance of the little bird and his merry chirp to proclaim the passage of another hour. Night and morn we thrill as we pull the chain that keeps it going tick-tock, tick-tock.

But best of all was the version of how this type of timepiece came into being. Similar to the story of the better mousetrap and beaten pathway, it differs in being covered with more than fame and money.

The legend of the cuckoo clock finds bags of gold and high honors scorned by the old and lonely clock-maker whose simple pleasures were filled by nature in spring and summer and an opportunity to help his fellowman.

The cuckoo is a lazy bird and has the habit of laying her eggs in the nests of other birds, thus avoiding the tedious task of hatching and providing a free baby-sitter for the fledgling.

But, like parent, like child, the young cuckoo often would open his beak wider than all the others and steal the choice morsels the other bird brought to the nest. Sometimes the foster bird parents become angry and throw the intruder out of the nest.

The old clock-maker, who barely made a living in his little house surrounded by pine trees of the mountains, was on his way home from the village one spring day when he found a cuckoo fledgling that had been tossed out by the foster parents and, unable to fly, had fluttered to the ground.

The old man took pity on the bird, fearing that a cat might get it, so he picked it up and took it home. The bird grew to like its new home and soon was flying from clock to clock singing its cuckoo song.

Then one day the king and all his men came to hunt the big stag that lived in the forest. The king brought the beautiful young princess, who was pale and unhappy, in the hope that the excitement would bring color back to her cheeks.

The king remembered the home of the clock-maker and brought the princess to see how clocks were made. When the cuckoo flew to the top of the prettiest clock and began to sing, "cuckoo, cuckoo," the princess clapped her hands in glee and broke out in merry laughter.

Just as the king called to his men in their fancy dresses for his bags of gold to buy the clock and bird for the princess, the cuckoo became frightened and flew out the window.

The old clock-maker promised the disconsolate princess that he would make her a cuckoo clock for Christmas. He toiled night and day and by snowfall had completed his masterpiece which he took to the castle.

The little princess would stand on tiptoe each hour to watch the little bird come out of its door and was happy all day long—just like the Sower.

The king wanted the old man to stay at the palace but he preferred to go home to his birds and trees. The princess showed her clock to all visitors and soon the clock-maker had many, many more clocks.

From the fantasy of Old Europe to the practical, modern Nebraska.

A claim has been filed with Clark of the Legislature. Hinge $63 for Earl S. Slack of Evans.

He asks this amount for hauling off rich topped that was deposited by winter dust storms to a height of 5 and 4 feet along snow fences that the highway department had erected on his farm.

A THOUGHT FOR THE SABBATH

Stories Of Famous Hymns

Softly Now The Light Of Day

Softly now the light of day
Fades upon my sight away;
Free from care, from labor, free,
Lord, I would commune with Thee.

Thou, whose all-pervading eye
Naught escapes, without, within,
Pardon each infirmity,
Open fault and secret sin.

Soon for me the light of day
Shall forever pass away;
Then from sin and sorrow free,
Take me, Lord, to dwell with Thee.

By HORACE B. POWELL

Bishop George Washington Doane, whose missionary song, "Fling Out The Banner," has gone around the world, also wrote this inspiring evening hymn. It first appeared in a little volume of "Songs By The Way" which he published in 1824, when he was scarcely 25 years old.

Its verses are based on the familiar Bible passage in Psalms 141:2

"Let my prayer be set forth before Thee
as incense; and the lifting up of my hands
as the evening sacrifice."

Born in Trenton, N.J. in 1799, the year in which Washington died, Bishop Doane was named after the first President. At 19, he was graduated from a theological course at Union College with high honors. Soon afterward he became pastor of Trinity Episcopal Church in Boston—a church which in later years became a famous preaching station under the ministry of Phillips Brooks. He was only 33 when he was made bishop of New Jersey, a post which he held until his death in 1859.

Bishop Doane will be remembered always for his religious leadership and for his hymns and other writings; his name will always be associated, too, with St. Mary's Hall, a school for young women at Burlington, N.J., which he founded. During his later years he gave much of his time and leadership to this college and when he died he was buried in a little churchyard nearby. For years after his death, students were accustomed to gather for worship each Wednesday night in the college chapel and invariably they closed their devotions by singing "Softly Now The Light Of Day" as a memorial tribute to the school's founder.

DORIS FLEESON

Press Tells Ike, 'Get Busy'

WASHINGTON —An important break has taken place in the almost monolithic press support President Eisenhower personally has enjoyed since the beginning of his candidacy.

"Get going, Ike" is the caption on a cartoon in the Scripps-Howard newspapers, which have been increasingly unhappy about current trends but up to now had blamed only McCarthy and Republicans in Congress. In their present view "it is about time for Ike to lose his temper and raise some hell."

Asserting that the President "is dealing with a Congress which has defaulted—a Republican leadership which has failed to lead," the editorial admonishes him to "provide the leadership or he will be run over by an oxcart."

An unanswered question when the new administration took over was how the President would react to the criticism bound to come his way if he stayed in the White House very long. He had had almost none of it during his 10-year tenure as a military hero and an international administrator.

The policies he then executed were devised by Roosevelt and Truman. They did not reach him until they had been hammered out on the congressional anvil and had passed muster in the court of public opinion. By that time, they were national policies, if not universally popular at least widely accepted.

In the process of achieving policy, Gen. Eisenhower was, of course, often called an expert witness. But he was beyond controversy in that role, praised and supported by Democrats and Republicans alike. For his part, he was always adroit and sincere, effortlessly creating an aura of being beyond partisanship which surely helped him to win the presidency so easily.

In refusing to "take the ball and run with it" he has acted in character, and not even the harsh realities he is presently facing have sufficed to change him. The Senate has not curbed McCarthy but the president still declines that combat. He is delegating more authority, not less. The experienced politicians on Capitol Hill quietly talk about "the feel of the job" and wonder how to help him get it.

There is considerable injustice in the harsh words heaped on the Republican congressional leadership. These leaders have bare majorities; the party is faction-ridden and bedeviled by McCarthy. They get no clear mandate from the White House, day in and day out, to help them keep their members in line. GOP patronage problems remain largely unsolved.

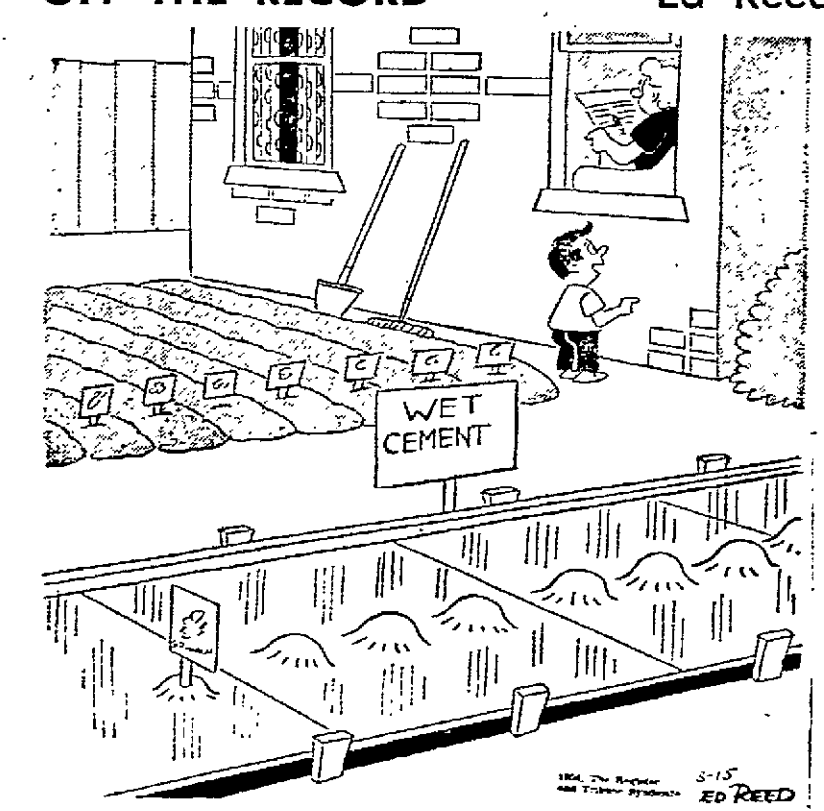

Congress talks a great deal about its prerogatives and its independence of the executive. In actual practice, members, especially in the House, depend on the President to make so strong a case for this policies they can use him as an alibi at home for their votes.

Scripps-Howard editors report a "very favorable response" to their "get going" warning to the President. At least his attention should be attracted to the fact that a major supporter has taken him to task while informing him that Harry Truman has given him, good advice.

Cream Of The Crop

Omaha, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: As president of Aviation Cadet Selection Team 502, I would like to give public congratulations to the several young men of this community who have seen fit to apply for U.S. Air Force Aviation Cadet Training. Our selection team is one of 63 throughout the country whose purpose it is to counsel and select outstanding young men, high school graduates and above, for flying training with the Air Force. However, as is always the case, we are wondering if we have reached as many potential Air Force pilots and aircraft observers as we could.

In pay, in prestige, in training, there are many advantages to accrue to a young high school graduate who has the determination to become an Air Force flying officer. But aside from the personal advantages, which certainly cannot be paramount where our country's very existence is at stake, we must consider what we contribute to our preservation through Air Force flying training.

(1) Reliable authority has suggested that we already be engaged in a death struggle with aggressive Communism, if not already overrun by it, were it not for our strong Air Force.

(2) In order to maintain its current superiority, the Air Force needs to train more than 15,000 new pilots and aircraft observers annually.

(3) To keep pace with our current industrial and scientific advances in air power, the Air Force needs the cream of the crop of America's young men—constantly.

For these reasons, the Air Force has to be highly selective in the men it trains to be flying officers. In training, being offered in the pilot and aircraft observer training programs is second to none in the world. Our selection team is located at Offutt Air Force Base.

Second Plant To Process West Sidney Gas Building Will Start Next Month

SIDNEY, Neb. (P) — A gas-line plant to process natural gas from the West Sidney field and from possible other fields of southwest Cheyenne County, will be built here by the Ohio Oil Co.

Ohio's announcement said the plant would be started around June 15 and should be completed about Dec. 15. The company did not say how much the plant would cost.

Ohio, pioneer in the discovery of oil and gas in western Nebraska, already operates a gas-line plant three miles north of here. It processes gas from the Huntman Field and other areas in Cheyenne County.

An Ohio spokesman said negotiations were being completed with Stearns-Roger Manufacturing Co., Denver, to build the plant. Stearns-Roger also constructed the Huntman plant.

Besides the plant, the construction program will include laying about 20 miles of high pressure gas gathering lines to carry the gas from the West Sidney wells to the plant.

Average daily capacity of the plant will be around 7,500,000 cubic feet, although it will have a peak capacity of 12,000,000 cubic feet daily.

The Ohio spokesman said the firm had committed the West Sidney gas output to the Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Co., Hastings. Kansas-Nebraska will lay pipelines to carry the gas from Sidney to its existing lines.

Land and mineral owners will share in proceeds from the sale of products that are stripped from the gas, Ohio said. They are butane, propane and natural gasoline.

Don Novotny of Clarkson has been elected president of the University of Nebraska Block and Bridle Club for the 1954-55 school year. The organization is made up of men students majoring in animal husbandry in the College of Agriculture.

Other officers elected: Vice president, Charles Watson, Pierce; secretary, Don Leisy, Wm.; treasurer, Allen Trenkle, Hay Springs; historian, Cal Lemon, Crawford; co-historian, Duane Trenkle, Hay Springs; marshal, James Svoboda, Burwell; ag executive board representative, Ray Kelley, Danbury.

Professor Charles H. Adams was re-named faculty advisor for the club.

Strunk To Run For Governor If 83 Ignored

McCook, Neb. (P) — Harry Strunk of McCook said that if the state does not build Highway 83 from the four million dollars it "found" he'll run for governor himself with the aim of building that road.

Strunk previously had said he was considering becoming an independent candidate for Congress in the First District.

He said he would not oppose Carl T. Curtis, present First District Congressman now seeking the U. S. Senate nomination, "but I did not say that I would not aspire to any other state or national position."

Gov. Crosby and State Engineer L. N. Renss listed 16 Nebraska road projects which can be "graduated" from gravel to hard surfacing this year thanks to leftover money from the current two-year road program.

"Either the governor and the state engineer include Highway 83 development in their spending of the four million dollars which they found or I will be a candidate for the governorship of Nebraska and do a better job of administering the business of this state than has been done for some time, or I will move out," Strunk said.

Judge Lectures To Teen-agers, Given Sentences

OMAHA (P) — Four Omaha teen-agers got a lecture from District Judge L. Ross Newkirk before being sentenced to the state reformatory. Two were charged with auto theft and two with burglary.

Terming their conduct "shocking," the judge said here are "boys coming from seemingly good surroundings stepping into a crime on a big scale. Nothing would stop them except getting caught."

"This is a tragic situation," he told the youths and their parents. "But society cannot tolerate such conduct from its youth."

The four, given reformatory sentences ranging from one to four years, were accused stealing 24 cars and participating in five burglaries.

Highway Plan 'No Longer Is Limping Along'

ALMA, Neb. (P) — Gov. Robert Crosby told the South Platte Chamber of Commerce that Nebraska's highway program is no longer "limping along."

"We are now in the midst of the greatest highway program in our history," he declared.

Crosby spoke at the annual meeting of the SPUCC attended by some 225 members of the organization.

At a directors meeting, Oran King of Superior was elected president of the organization. Roy Linwell of McCook was elected vice president and Bob Kammerer of Holdrege was named to succeed the long-time secretary of the organization, Cletus Nelson.

The governor said that "there isn't any politics" in the highway program. When delegations come to Lincoln in connection with highways, he said he takes them for an explanation to the sufficiency rating map prepared by the highway department.

"Not in any single instance has there been any change from the highway program," Crosby declared.

F. E. Cummings Dies; Native Of Nebraska

DENVER — Funeral services were held here for Frederick E. Cummings, 69, a state highway department employee for 25 years. He was a native of Springfield, Neb., coming to Colorado as a child.

Surviving are his wife, Beatrice; two sons, Earl of Durango, Colo., and Glenn of Craig, Colo.; two sisters and two grandchildren.

Butler's Proposal Would Authorize Red Willow Dam

WASHINGTON (P) — Sen. Hugh Butler (R-Neb) plans to offer shortly a bill which would authorize the Bureau of Reclamation rather than the Army Engineers to build the proposed Red Willow Dam in Nebraska.

The project has already been authorized. Butler disclosed his intentions in testimony before a Senate Interior Appropriations Subcommittee.

The Nebraskan also asked the subcommittee to recommend that $441,000 be added to the funds voted by the House for investigation work on Missouri River Basin projects. This would provide money for an investigation survey of the proposed Red Willow Dam.

Butler's aides said that if investigation work is done next year an appropriation might be made during the year starting July 1, 1955, for construction money.

Americans Understand, Support DAV Goals, Says Capt. Hogan

KEARNEY, Neb. (P) — A national officer of the Disabled American Veterans (DAV) said here the American people are not being taken in by attacks on veterans organizations and their programs for rehabilitation disabled veterans.

The remarks were prepared for delivery to the DAV Department of Nebraska convention by Capt. Cicero F. Hogan of Washington, national director of claims for the DAV. The meet lasts through Saturday.

"There is every indication that our fellow citizens understand what we have accomplished and are in support of our goals," he declared.

A four-pronged attack is being made on the disabled veteran, Hogan said:

1. A smear campaign not only against the DAV but against all veterans organizations.
2. A movement to take away Veterans Administration hospitals for private use.
3. An organized effort to abolish disability compensation assistance for veterans disabled 50 per cent or less.
4. A movement to do away with disability compensation for 70 per cent of the disabled veterans in the United States.

Butler Plans Trip To Orient

WASHINGTON (P) — Sen. Butler (R-Neb) plans a trip to the Orient next fall.

Butler told a group of visiting Hawaiians here to urge Hawaiian statehood that he expected to be in Honolulu in November.

He said he and his administrative assistant plan a five-week trip to visit Hawaii, the Philippines, Japan, Hong Kong and possibly Formosa. It will be a private trip and not a committee assignment.

Although he is not up for election this fall, Butler said he planned to campaign in Nebraska for other party candidates and would head across the Pacific after the elections.

Miller Against Endorsement Of Candidates

WASHINGTON (P) — Rep. A. L. Miller (R-Neb) feels the Nebraska Republican state convention should not endorse candidates in the primary election.

He expressed his views in a letter to William W. Spear of Fremont, newly elected state GOP chairman.

"Since the state legislature has repealed the legislation authorizing endorsement on the ballot, I do not feel we should flaunt the will of our legislators," Miller said in the letter which he made public here.

Rev. Dwyer Named Pastor At Dalton

DALTON, Neb. (P) — The Rev. Richard Dwyer, graduate of Hastings College, has become pastor of the Dalton Presbyterian Church, succeeding the Rev. Donald Duly, who resigned.

A native of Colorado, he was graduated from Hastings College in 1950. He was graduated from McCormick Theological Seminary in May of 1953, and ordained in the First Presbyterian Church in Hastings the same month.

He served churches in Illinois before coming here.

School Land Fund Petition Drive Goes On

SIDNEY, Neb. (P) — The petition campaign for a vote on a proposed constitutional amendment to change the system of distributing school land funds is about on schedule—half the signatures needed on hand to date.

George Fleming of Sidney who is in active charge of the drive said the sponsors have "received signed and notarized petitions from 18 counties, and we figure we have about half of the 60,000 signatures needed to put the question up to the people."

Fleming noted that petitions must be filed from 38 counties and these must have signatures amounting to at least 5 per cent of the number of people who voted in the county at the last general election.

The petitions must be filed with the secretary of state by July 1.

$331,106 Structure Is Dedicated

Dedication of the new $331,106 Meat Laboratory Friday marked another long step forward in the University of Nebraska's program of service to the livestock industry.

Up until the completion of the new building, Professor William J. Loeffel, chairman of the Animal Husbandry Department, had used an old blacksmith shop as a makeshift meat laboratory.

One of the speakers for the dedication, Charles J. Warner, lieutenant governor of Nebraska, referred to the old blacksmith shop. "In 1919, Dean E. A. Burnett of the College of Agriculture told Professor Loeffel not to repair the old blacksmith shop as he would be provided with a new building—35 years later this was true."

C. Y. Thompson, president of the Board of Regents, formally dedicated the building. He emphasized that agriculture is the leading industry in Nebraska with the state ranking third in the nation in the production of beef and Omaha becoming one of the leading marketing centers in the nation.

He speculated on how much the state had lost because of not having the building before now. Thompson recalled there was a time in Nebraska when the tremendous loss caused by hog cholera was taken for granted because research had not yet found a means of preventing it.

John K. Selleck, chancellor of the University of Nebraska, said, "We are indebted to the people of Nebraska for this fine building made possible by the 1.1 mill levy building fund enacted by the 1947 legislature." Other buildings erected since the passing of the 10-building law are the agronomy building and the insectary.

Dean W. V. Lambert, College of Agriculture, said a good research program is dependent upon an adequate supply of well-trained men and the availability of equipment and laboratory facilities. He outlined many uses for this new research tool—the modern meat laboratory.

The research program conducted at the new meat laboratory will seek to evaluate and interpret the results of livestock experiments dealing with breeding, feeding and management.

Fundamental work will also be undertaken to answer such questions as "What makes meat tender?" and "At what temperature should frozen meat be stored?"

Close Co-operation
Staff members will co-operate with other university departments and with other research workers who can make contributions to the solution of mutual problems.

Home economic students, particularly those interested in institutional management, will have an opportunity to appraise meat quality and to study the best methods of preparing the various cuts and kinds of meats.

R. C. Pollock, secretary-general manager of the National Livestock and Meat Board, Chicago, discussed the history of meat research.

In discussing the needs in meat research, Dr. H. R. Kraybill, director of research and education of the American Meat Institute Foundation, Chicago, said one of the needs is to find ways of producing high quality meat at lower cost.

An open house was held from 2 until 9 p.m. for the public to tour the modern structure and see several educational meat exhibits. Attending the dedication were members of the state's livestock organizations and representatives of stockyards, packers, commission firms, food retailers, frozen food companies, farmers and ranchers.

Services Held For Dr. R. H. Kerr, 71

ALMA, Neb.—Funeral services were held at the Methodist Church here for Dr. Robert H. Kerr, 71-year-old physician here for the past 38 years. He died unexpectedly following a heart attack.

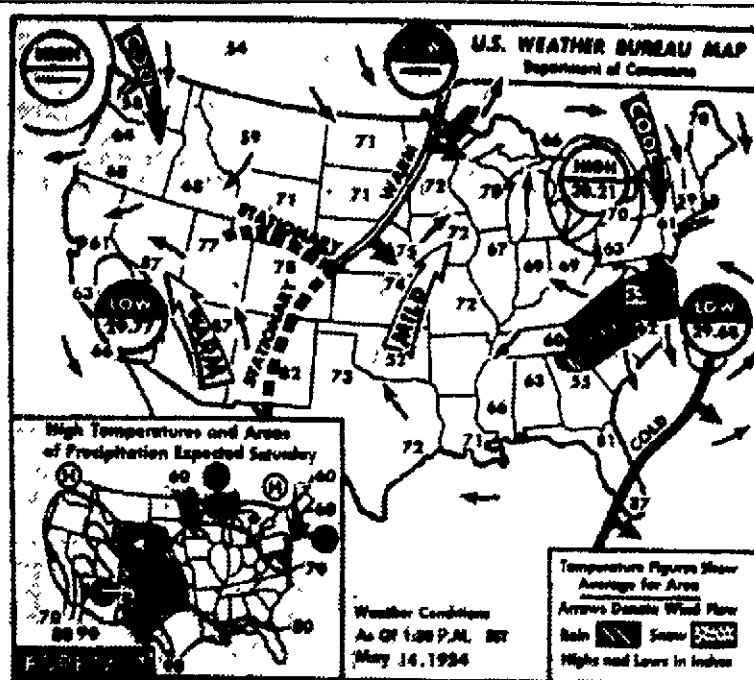

Born at Republican City, he attended Fremont Normal School and was graduated from the University of Nebraska Medical College. He came to Alma in 1916. Dr. Kerr was active in community and church work.

Surviving are his wife and three daughters, Mrs. Evelyn Johnson of Arcadia, Calif., Mrs. Sylvia McConahay of Governors Island, N.Y., and Mrs. Wilma Seyler of Alma.

Showers, Thunderstorms Predicted

Showers and thunderstorms are forecast Saturday for southern and central Rockies, western sections of central plains, Texas panhandle and parts of upper Mississippi valley. Northwestern Lakes region, the Appalachians, the Gulf and most of the Atlantic states will have warmer weather except for New England, where it will remain cool. Little change is expected elsewhere. Arthur Godfrey Attends Event Honoring First Omaha Hostelry

OMAHA (AP)—"I flew in to see my old friend, Gen. Curtis LeMay," explained TV-star Arthur Godfrey, and the next thing "I was dressed in the outfit my grandfather was buried in."

That was Godfrey's explanation for a long black tail coat, false mustache and sideburns he was wearing when newsmen found him as an announced guest at a dinner given by the Omaha Society of Amateur Chefs.

The dinner recreated, in the ballroom of the Blackstone Hotel, a banquet at the Herndon House, the first fine hostelry in Omaha, which is currently celebrating its centennial. The Herndon House has since passed from the scene.

Godfrey was en route to Denver when he dropped in on LeMay and found him in costume for the dinner.

A guest of honor at the party was Mrs. Dan Robertson, North Platte. Her grandfather, Menzo W. Keith, was the first manager of the Herndon House, scene of many pioneer social events and stopping place for stage coach passengers.

French Leaders Seek Reinforcements For Indo-China Forces

PARIS (AP)—France's top military and political leaders huddled Friday in an effort to find manpower to reinforce French Union forces in Indo-China.

There was no announcement of any decisions at the end of the meeting here. In Geneva, Foreign Minister Georges Bidault and U. S. Undersecretary Walter Bedell Smith were reported to have talked over greater American aid through creation of a NATO-like organization of anti-Communist powers in the Pacific.

Discussions in Paris centered around a report from Gen. Henri Navarre, French commander in Indo-China, on the situation after the fall of Dien Bien Phu. Taken into account also was

Mistrial Declared In J. P. Ryan Case

NEW YORK (INS)—A mistrial was declared in the grand jury trial of Joseph P. Ryan, former international Longshoremen's Association president, when an all-male jury reported it was still deadlocked after 18 hours of deliberation.

General sessions Judge Francis L. Valentine dismissed the jurors who could not make up their minds whether Ryan was guilty or not as charged—of misappropriating $17,000 union funds and using the money for personal luxuries.

The 70-year-old former waterfront leader received the news calmly. He remained free on bail.

Loup District Requests Power Line Permission

Application has been made by the Loup River Public Power District for permission to construct a 115,000 volt electric transmission line between Lincoln and Wahoo, the State Railway Commission announced.

The request includes building a sub-station about three miles north of Lincoln and the 22 miles of line would connect it with the Wahoo sub-station.

Purpose of the construction, it was explained, was to provide additional energy for REA organizations in the Wahoo area. Increased use of electricity for pump irrigation is said to have made the added power necessary.

'Absolute Impasse' LONDON (INS)—Great Britain reportedly will not discuss the political aspects of any southeast Asia security organization until an "absolute impasse" is reached at Geneva.

A usually well-informed source said in London that Britain wants the agreement of Asian "partners" and military staff talks before going into the form and membership of such an organization.

The source added that British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden wants Asian "partners" like India and Ceylon to agree to the idea of a security organization as a primary step.

Meanwhile, sources at the Geneva conference said the United States is considering a security pact in southeast Asia that would not include Britain. That information came after the French government reportedly appealed again for U. S. intervention in Indo-China.

98th Wing To Move To Lincoln Air Base

... Maj. Gen. Old Addresses Luncheon

Maj. Gen. Archie J. Old Jr. told Lincolnites attending the annual Chamber of Commerce-Kiwanis Club Armed Forces Day luncheon Friday that the 98th Bombardment Wing will be moved into Lincoln just as soon as construction on the base is completed probably sometime this fall.

The 98th is now based in the Pacific and flying B-29s. The former Fairchild Air Force Base wing will be converted to B-47s, the jet bombers, when they move to the Lincoln Air Force Base.

Gen. Old, director of operations for the Strategic Air Command based at Offutt Field in Omaha, said "Lincoln will play an important part in the Air Force picture."

He added that the base when activated will make economically a big impression on the city. "When construction work is finished, the Air Force will have spent $43 million. Several thousand persons connected with the base will be making Lincoln their home and will be active in civic, church, and school affairs. We know from previous experience that these people will spend from their salaries about $15 million a year locally," Gen. Old said.

Airmen and officers usually stay at one base from three to five years and the combat crews normally stay longer than that period.

The general added that the Lincoln base will be an air division of SAC which means that two B-47 wings will be located here.

(Lincoln Air Force Base spokesmen said normally 12 to 15 bombers constitute a squadron and three squadrons plus an air refueling squadron constitute a wing. This would mean that about 36 B-47s and 20 KC-97s would form one wing. Slightly less than 2,000 men form the manpower for a wing.)

"Air power is the dominating factor in our military force," Gen. Old stated. "It is necessary that we have a balanced force but realize that air power is dominant."

Gen. Old flew 43 combat missions over Germany during World War II and led the 1943 raid on Schweinfurt which involved about 1,200 planes. He added that one plane today could deliver more than the total destructive force expended throughout the entire World War II.

Other guests at the luncheon included Dr. C. Vin White, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church; Farley Young, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Armed Forces committee; Gov. Robert Crosby; Don Newville, Kiwanis vice-president;

MRS. VERNON BELKNAP

Marriage Announced

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Mary Lorraine Harper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Harper, to Vernon Belknap, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Belknap, which took place on Friday evening, April 9, at East Lincoln Christian Church. The lines of the service were read by the Rev. Raymond Alber in the presence of the members of the family.

The bride wore for her wedding a dress-aker suit of navy blue wool with white accessories and a shoulder corsage of white carnations.

Following a short wedding trip, the couple is residing in Lincoln.

Included among the members of the family attending the wedding was the bride's brother, Airman Harry Harper, who recently has returned to the states after serving in Korea with the Air Force.

SO WE STARTED OVER

THOUGHT we had the week-end all wrapped up—signed, sealed and ready for delivery, but this morning we learned there were numerous more items to be included so we had to unwrap it and start over.

Item No. 1 has to do with the fact that Mr. and Mrs. A. Q. Schimmel were in Omaha on Thursday evening where they attended a dinner for which Mr. Schimmel's cuisine club—the Amateur Chefs—were hosts at Hotel Blackstone, and when, among other unusual features of the party, the wives of the members were guests.

The centennial motif was introduced in the costumes, the appointments for the tables—and the menu. A replica of the entrance to Omaha's first hotel, the Herndon, which records describe as "a sturdy four-story structure at 4th and Farnham streets", was erected as an entrance to the dining room, and we hear that the original thought had been to arrange tables for six each, but with so many hoop skirts among the feminine guests, there was a last minute change to four places each. The Amateur Chefs also borrowed a menu from the old Herndon—including soup, fish, marinated buffalo meat, prairie quail, wild plum sherbet, gooseberry truffle—and dozens of other tempting delicacies.

Even the Amateur Chefs had a surprise when General and Mrs. Curtis LeMay and their guest arrived—for the guest was Arthur Godfrey—in person—

SPEAKING of parties—hear that Mr. and Mrs. James Bell of York will be in town this week-end, and will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Yule at the Cotillion Club dinner dance—Preceding the dinner dance Mr. and Mrs. Yule will entertain a small group of guests at a canape party at their home—

LEARNED, too, that Raymond C. L. Greer, Jr., arriving in Lincoln Friday morning to join Mrs. Greer and their son, Billy, and to accompany them home to Chicago on Sunday, Mrs. Greer and young Billy have been the guests of Mrs. Greer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Aitken while Mr. Greer was on a business trip to the west coast.

Incidentally—Mr. and Mrs. Greer also will be guests of the Cotillion club dinner this evening.

IT'S A week from tonight that the members of the 100 Club will dine and dance at Hotel Cornhusker when the party arrangements will be in charge of a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Rosewell, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin L. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hof, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hintsman, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Pittenger, and Mr. and Mrs. Willard W. Folsom.

The 20th annual spring program for Lincoln's homebound pupils will be presented at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at Sheridan School with the following pupils participating: Wesley Kerns, Nancy Wagner, Elizabeth Criley, Sharon Morris, Joyce Cook, Richard Wilkinson, Ronald Burger, Rex Slack, Nancy Cowles and Ronald Kilchen.

Presented by the special education committee of the Lincoln Council of Parents and Teachers with the co-operation of Sheridan School and the homebound teachers, the program will have the centennial theme. Guests will be the pupils' families, and refreshments will be served. Favors also will be given to the pupils.

Jasper George, treasurer.

MRS. PAUL E. KASL

Tall arrangements of white and pink gladioli and snapdragons, and cathedral candles burning in pedestal candelabra, appointed the chancel of First Presbyterian Church Friday evening, May 14, for the marriage of Miss Annette Ellison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duane G. Ellison, to Paul E. Kasl, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Mullally of McCook. The 8 o'clock ceremony was solemnized by Dr. C. Vin White.

Wearing waltz-length frocks of mist blue iridescent taffeta were Miss Lila Lea Johnson of Mead, the maid of honor, and the bridesmaid, Miss Billie Loetterle, Miss Marilyn Towne, Miss Karen Benson and Miss Joan Clements, who carried mosegays of white and pink daisies and wore circlets of the blossoms in their hair. Miss Karen Whitcomb, in white organdy, was the flower girl, and ringbearer was Allan Paul Monteen.

White Chantilly lace touched with tulle fashioned the bride's period gown. A low, rounded neckline emphasized with floral appliques of the lace, and long fitted sleeves accented the molded bodice, and the full skirt was edged with pleated tulle and extended into a train.

Alynn Kasl of McCook served as best man, and the ushers were Jerry Ludwig, Dale King, Melvin King and Richard Smith.

A reception for 300 guests was held in the church parlors. Upon their return from a short trip, Mr. and Mrs. Kasl will make their home in Lincoln. Both have attended the University of Nebraska, and Mr. Kasl is a former student at Nebraska Wesleyan University.

The Hope for Hopeless Hair

A RESTOR TREATMENT is just what the name implies, it restores hair to a normal condition, for the many ills of hair, excessive dryness, split ends or damage from improper treatment. It is the quick restoration with the help of keratin, a protein found in normal hair which is often lost when the hair is abused or neglected for a month or two.

RESTOR is a solution of elements for hair designed to penetrate the hair shaft and remain there to revive, strengthen and add weight to limp, dull, scanty, bleached, drab and dyed hair. It will definitely change the appearance with just a single treatment to a more natural look and will make it feel like new grown hair, resulting in a defined and lustrous appearance, more satisfactory permanent waves and will prevent fading in tinted hair.

The whole process takes no longer than a few more minutes and helps to make a bygone of unruly hair.

Homeland Welcomes Elizabeth II

... 17-Warship Escort

By ALVIN STEINKOPF
LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II sailed home Friday night to mist-shrouded England from a historic six-month globe-girdling tour. First to greet her was Prime Minister Winston Churchill, who boarded the royal yacht Britannia in Southampton harbor at the Queen's special invitation.

The 79-year-old prime minister dined with the sun-tanned young queen and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh. Churchill remained aboard as the Britannia moved slowly down the English Channel coast to anchor in the Thames Estuary.

The prime minister wore one of his most cherished naval uniforms as an officer of Trinity House.

Children to Bed
Prince Charles and flaxen-haired Princess Anne, who had been playing deck hockey with two naval ratings as the Britannia approached Southampton, were bundled below to bed as Churchill arrived.

For a few moments the rain clouds which had blanketed Britain for most of the day lifted, and a golden sun bathed the royal yacht and its mighty escort as it came to rest.

Saturday morning Churchill will leave the Britannia in the river Thames and motor up to London to head up the second, official, welcome-home party at Westminster Pier.

Bonfires gleamed on the hill-tops overlooking the sea. Many thousands of British flocked to the coast to catch a distant glimpse of a majestic escort of 17 warships moving along slowly with the blue and white royal yacht in their midst.

Blinker Welcome
The English Channel was dotted with hundreds of other vessels of every conceivable type and size. Yachts, tugs, ferries, barges, motorboats and even sailing craft went out into the hazy channel for a closer look at the stately parade.

Blinking lights flashed greetings. All along the coast signal flags spelled out the words "welcome home."

Britannia's radio was swamped with messages, many from officials of counties, cities and villages who sent their greetings as the royal yacht passed. One came from the president of France, Rene Coty, who assured the Queen of his "respect and friendship."

It was a day packed with emotion for the young queen.

Plans Made For Foundation To Aid Library

Final plans are being made for creation of a Lincoln Library Foundation which would solicit and receive endowment funds for the Lincoln City Library.

The foundation would consist of five to 13 members, a majority of whom would be Library Board members and the others, interested citizens and investment counselors.

Charles Dalrymple, library director, explained that the proposed foundation would function in the same manner as the University of Nebraska Foundation. It would solicit and receive gifts and make suggestions for their use.

However, the Library Board would have final authority in determining use of funds, Dalrymple said. "Overlapping directorate" would facilitate coordination of the work of the two groups.

Elwood Thompson is chairman of the committee drawing up the proposed articles of incorporation for the foundation. The city attorney's office will then review the legal description of the organization to be sure nothing will interfere with the municipal service of the library.

The articles of incorporation will then be re-submitted to the Library Board for approval at its June meeting. Dalrymple said they hope to file the articles by the middle of June.

Pen Murder Suspect To Be Named

Identity of the suspect-murderer of Penitentiary Guard John Claussen will be disclosed Saturday, Lancaster Co. Atty. Frederick Wagener said Friday. Wagener added that he would have an announcement Sunday as to the action planned in the case.

He said he was advised Friday by the psychiatrists that the examination of the suspect will be completed by Saturday morning.

"As I said earlier," Wagener explained, "The name of the inmate suspect cannot be released until the examination is completed."

Saturday Conference

The county attorney said he will confer with the four examining psychiatrists at 10 a.m. Saturday in his office.

While formal reports may not be ready at that time, the results of the examination will be known, he said.

After the findings of the four examining psychiatrists are made known, the "future course as to the criminal offense to be charged will be determined and announced," he said.

In an announcement a week ago Thursday, Wagener said the case had "been solved" and the suspect would be examined by psychiatrists.

At that time, Wagener identified the suspect as one of the 19 inmate-workers in the prison print shop where Claussen, who was shop supervisor, was killed on April 16.

Wagener also indicated at that time that first-degree murder charges would be brought if the inmate-suspect was found legally and medically sane by the examiners.

In the case, which will be a month old Sunday, guards underwent lie detector tests. "Truth serum" tests were made on several inmates. Clothing and other physical evidence was examined by the FBI laboratory in Washington.

Claussen, 70, was slugged as he sat in a chair in the prison print shop, eating his lunch. Then he was dragged behind some type filing cases where his throat was slashed with his own pocket knife.

An Eye For The Future
There's no question about where Nebraska Track Coach Ed Weir would like to see Lincoln High's ace pole vaulter Bernie Randolph go to school next year. In this picture he gives the Lincoln senior a pat on the back after Randolph failed on his third try at the state record. Randolph won the event at 12 feet 6 1/2 inches. (Star Photo.)

Pueblo Dropped 7-4, By Brown's Arm, Bat

By NORRIS ANDERSON
Sports Editor, The Star

Norm Brown, heap big Chief on the Lincoln pitching tefel poll, finally severed a three-game losing streak at Sherman Field Friday night by sinking the artful Pueblo Dodgers, 7-4, on an eight-hitter.

Not quite his usual serene self, Brown nonetheless showed his typical calmness in the clutch and even emerged as the loose-jointed game's batting hero before 1,616 joyous patrons.

As the Chiefs were winning their fourth straight, the pesky Sioux City Soos kept the rapid gait by socking Denver, 7-2, for their seventh straight victory.

In this tight-rope race for the Western League leadership, Manager Whitey Wietelmann will now cast either Vance Carlson (2-0) or newcomer Thomas Keating (0-0), both righthanders, against Pueblo's righthanded Gene Kern (1-2) in a single game tonight at 8 o'clock.

"The chips are down," says Wietelmann, a die-hard percentage guy in this matter of winning baseball games. "We can't afford to lose with Sioux City going so hot."

After yielding a run to the Soos in the first on a walk, an infield out and a single by Frank Jeffers, Brown asserted his boiling competitive spirit at the plate in the third.

Dusty Rhodes was on base on an error when Norm took picks on one of Armando Suarez's roundhouse curves. It was a perfect case of bat meeting ball as squarely as Ben Hogan booms a drive as the ball flew over the leftfield fence for Brownie's second homer of the year.

Still battling righthanded, the switch-hitting Brown boomed two more singles off the left-handed Suarez until Mike Werbach took over in the seventh. Against the righthanded Werbach, Brown batted lefthanded and was an infield casualty.

broken Suarez's spell, the Chiefs added a third run in the same inning on successive singles by Billy (Scooter) Smith and Fred Hancock.

One tally blew in during the fifth, Johnny Jones tripping to left and bouncing home on Neil's single.

Willard Davis jolted Brown for a homer over the leftfield fence in the fourth, but the 35-year-old veteran weathered all storms until the eighth. At that point, Joe Potts doubled in two more runs, but the Chiefs had more in the fifth and three more in the seventh to stay well in front.

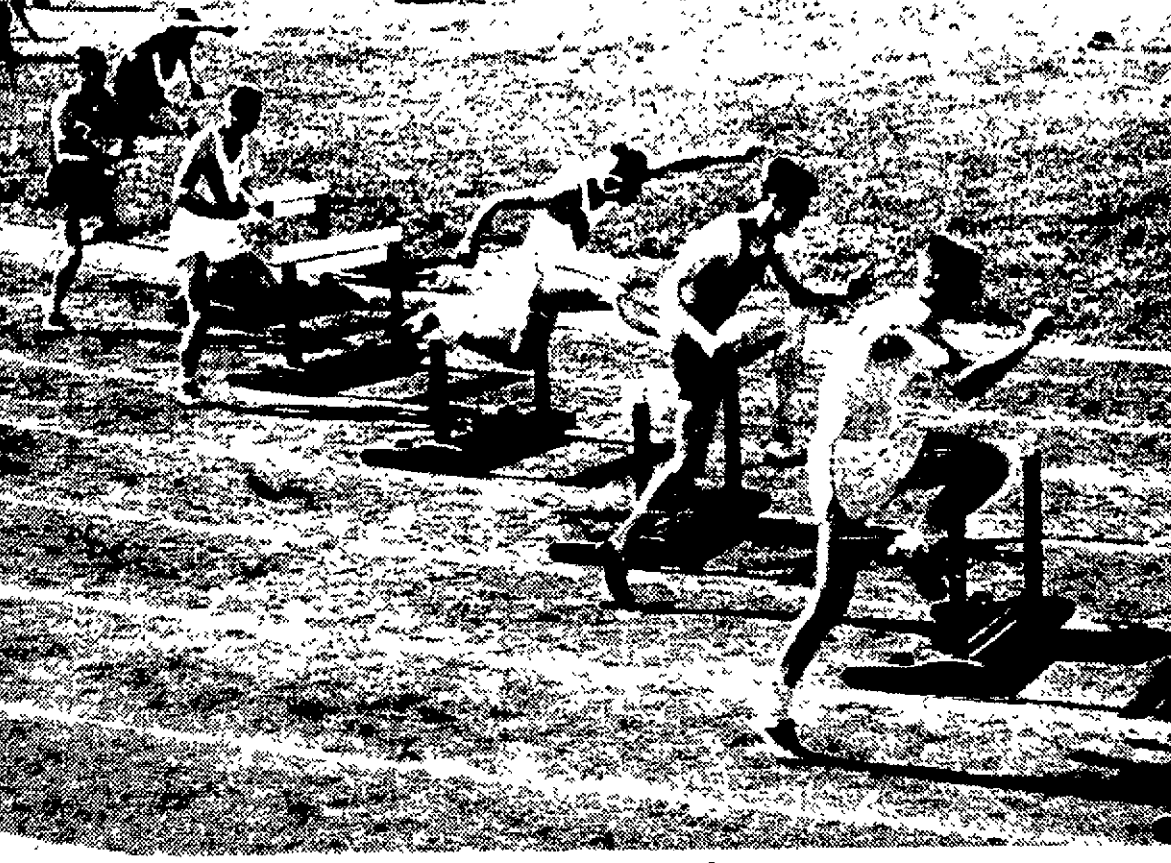

The three-run canter occurred on a hit batsman, doubles by Tom (The Old Clinkmaster) Neill and Walt Lunden and single by Red McQuillen and Orinthal (Call Me Andy) Anderson.

Skipper Goldie Holt's floggings never gave up. However, and loaded up the bases in the ninth. Brown bore down and quelled the rally on two forces at third and a strikeout.

Wigwam notes . . . Smith, the little colonel from North Carolina, continued his fast pace which now has him batting .500 on 11 hits in 22 at bats . . . His fielding has sparkled also . . . Neill, who drove in three runs, went up to .295 in the Totem Pole . . . One more hit and he'd been over .300 . . . Tom has driven in 10 runs in the last four games . . . Lincoln got only three runs in the third despite (1) three hits, including a home run, (2) two walks, (3) an error and (4) two wild pitches . . . There was a beef by Pueblo in the fifth when Jones triple rolled into the leftfield corner.

The Dodger theory, it should have been a ground rule double. Best catches: Orinthal Anderson's fingertip grab of a roller in the third and Maurice Willis' running catch of Neill's deep blow to center in the eighth.

Omaha Tech's Bass Goes 22-9 1/2 In 'A' Broad Jump

By BILL FITZGERALD
Star Sports Staff Member

Scottsbluff High School's track world began to disintegrate Friday afternoon in Memorial Stadium under pressure from the best balanced Class A field in the past decade of state championships.

The defending champions from the west may have died when two boys from the east, Bob Bass of Omaha Tech and Bernie Randolph of Lincoln, beat the Bearcats' vaulted Dick Knaub, holder of two state records and one of the best athletes to come to Lincoln in the history of state track meets.

Bass, a lithe senior who was expected to push Knaub in the broad jump, responded with a twisting leap of 22-9 1/2 on his second attempt to wipe out the initial 22-6 of the broad jump king from the Fanhandle.

Knaub was failing in the vault at the same time. He worked against Randolph with the pole and against Bass in the pits at the same time.

Randolph, the only vaulter in the state who might have beaten the state record holder, wavered only once while going up to 12-6 1/2, one notch higher than Knaub's best this day.

Knaub could not make it at 12-3. He tried three times and almost made it the third time when he appeared to be clear and the bar seemed settled, but it came tumbling down and the Bearcats' title probably fell with it.

Knaub injured his back in the broad jump and ran the slowest of three winning heats in the low hurdles, an event in which he tied the state record last year in the Championships.

Whether he can perform Saturday will not be known until late this morning, but his competition will be terrific.

Bob McIntyre of Omaha North and Bill Marten of Beatrice did the 120-yard lows in :20.3 and will be strong today, even against a sound Knaub.

Marten and McIntyre also will battle for the Class A title in the high hurdles, but Lee Ramage of Tech will be up there too after trying these noted performers with his :15.1.

Only gold medal winner Friday was Duane Eversoll, the Grand Island miller who figured to be among the leaders but who came into the Stadium with a best time several seconds slower than those of the Omaha North runners, Ken Ash and Bob Trumbauer.

But Eversoll had it Friday in the sun of the Stadium and he pulled away from the good field for a 2:00.9 to dominate the 880-yard runners by five yards.

Keith Bernhagen shattered the Class C discus mark with his heave of 145-0 1/2. The old mark was 144-11 by Frank Hardwick of Parks in 1934.

Jerry Bubak gave Cozad a boost in Class B when he pushed the shot 50-10 1/2 to beat the 50-7 1/2 set by the old Cornhusker fullback, Vike Francis of Hebron, in 1936.

Schneider and his five assistants set one state record Friday that won't go in the books.

"By exact count, we gave rub-downs to 325 of these high school athletes," Schneider revealed, dropping a weary arm to his side. "It's worth it, though, because these kids appreciate everything you do for them."

Schneider's assistants are Jim V. Jones (who is being saved for the Saturday finals), George Findley Sullivan, John Bordogna, Andy Loehr and George Gohde. It was a special privilege for the preppers to get personal attention from Bordogna, Loehr and Gohde of football fame.

An interested spectator was Orinthal Anderson, hard-hitting member of the Lincoln Chiefs. Andy, the Los Angeles city sprint champion during his prep days, is still an avid follower of the sport.

Lee Webb, hard-working NHA secretary, was pleased with the weather which fairly oozed with bright sunshine.

"Even if the weather is bad tomorrow, we can say we got at least one good day in," smiled Lee. "Even if a lot of the boys didn't qualify for the finals, they at least got to do their work under ideal conditions."

Saddest sight of the day: A dejected Dick Knaub slumped on a bench in the training room. The versatile Scottsbluff star, who sprained his back while leaping over 22 feet in the broad jump, is probably out of the finals today.

Thayer Teacher Upheld By High Court

The State Supreme Court upheld a lower court's ruling that Jack Noodell, a Thayer High School teacher and coach, was not guilty of gross negligence in driving a car which overturned the accident allegedly causing serious injuries to one of the passengers.

The teacher was the defendant in a suit brought by Charles L. Lusk, father of Shirley Lusk, high school student and passenger in the Noodell car.

A York District Court had found in favor of Shirley Lusk but on a motion for a judgment the court set aside the jury decision and dismissed the action. Lusk appealed to the Supreme Court, which affirmed the judgment of the lower court.

Shirley Lusk was one of five high school students riding as passengers in Noodell's car on Sept. 12, 1953. The group had been to a movie in York and were returning home when the car hit a rough spot in the road, swerved into a tree, and overturned in the bottom of a creek bed 20 feet below the highway.

Lusk charged that Noodell was driving at a high rate of speed and was not keeping a proper lookout. The other passengers testified that his speed did not exceed 25 to 30 miles an hour.

In another case, the Supreme Court said the Madison County District Court was in error in limiting the width of an easement obtained by the Kansas Natural Gas Company in condemnation proceedings for right-of-way for a pipeline across land belonging to Lester L. Scheer.

The lower court had enjoined the company from using more than a strip three and a half inches wide and 4,046 feet long. The company appealed.

Clarence Davis Keynote For GOP Meeting

Chairman W. W. Spear of the Republican State Central Committee said Friday that the keynote speaker May 24 at the party's pre-primary convention at Fremont would be Clarence Davis, Lincoln attorney, who is solicitor for the Department of Interior in Washington.

Arrangements were made earlier in the day for the Davis address. He will speak at 10:30 a.m. shortly after the convention sessions open.

Spear's announcement cleared the air on who should enunciate official party doctrine at the pre-primary convention and voted the designation of Senator Joseph McCarthy who was originally scheduled by former state chairman Dave Martin to be the meeting's principal speaker.

Spear said McCarthy would not appear until evening to address a general meeting after the close of the convention.

Said Spear, "The keynote speech is to the delegates to the convention and comes at the opening of the meeting."

"Senator McCarthy is scheduled to speak in the evening at a meeting open to the public and could not be regarded as the keynote."
